ASHINGTON—Sending members of Congress ducking under their seats and covering their ears, the U.S. Capitol building was reportedly placed on lockdown Tuesday after a deranged man entered the Senate chamber with gun control measures. “ It was terrifying—apparently he had written up hundreds and hundreds of pages detailing his plan to enact strict measures to regulate as many guns as possible, ” said Sen. Roy Blunt (R-MO), who confirmed that the suspect, a middle-aged man brandishing a large manila folder, was tackled by Capitol police officers after walking onto the Senate floor and announcing he was armed with a proposal. “ It was horrifying. You could tell he had planned the entire thing out. For a minute there, I really thought it was the end for these shootings. I ’ m just thankful he was caught before the gun lobby got hurt, or even killed. ” At press time, authorities had asked the media to refrain from sharing the deranged man ’ s writings to avoid inspiring any copycats.
