The Best Workplaces for Diversity stand out not only for how diverse each organization and its management team are, but also for how the employees themselves report they are treated in their workplaces.

To determine the list, Great Place to Work analyzed the experiences of women, people of color, LGBTQ people, employees who are baby boomers or older, and people who have disabilities, comparing their survey results to their colleagues' at the same organizations. All told, these anonymous survey responses on more than 60 survey questions reflecting day-to-day workplace treatment represented more than 4.4 million employees' work lives.
