

DHL Express, the world's leading express shipping and logistics provider, today announced a new service feature that helps both customers and future shipping recipients customize their delivery options ahead of time for all of their incoming deliveries. The service launches just in time for what is forecasted to be a record holiday season in terms of orders shipped.