葡萄牙名酒,瓮里红葡萄酒

method

after careful selection of the grapes, destemming and vinification were conducted separately for each grape variety.

the aragonez grapes fermentation took place in stainless steel vats, with pumping-over and controlled temperature of 25 - 28 ° c for 8 days. then the wine went through malolactic fermentation in new oak barrels of 225 litres (french & american).

the touriga nacional grapes fermentation took place in stainless steel vats, with controlled temperature of 28 - 30 ° c for 5 days. the wine remained in contact with the skins (cuvaion) at 20-24 ° c for a month, going through malolactic fermentation during this period. after that it spent 3 month in new oak barrels (french & american).

"tinto da talha grande escolha" is the blend of these 2 wines. it was bottled in february 2004.
