Global logistics giant DHL has announced the establishment of a fashion industry custom logistics excellence center in Jiuting, a suburb of Shanghai, creating a new way for high-end fashion logistics. The center invests 4.3 million euros and covers an area of 10500 square meters, adopting an end-to-end comprehensive approach to meet the specific needs of the high-end fashion and luxury goods industry.

It is understood that this logistics center will provide customers with end-to-end solutions for the specific needs of high-end fashion retailers for different products, such as high-end ready to wear clothes, leather goods, jewelry, watches, perfume, cosmetics and accessories.

At the same time, the center also brings together various value-added services of DHL, as well as a team focusing on high-end fashion and luxury industry, to manage the whole fashion supply chain and properly deliver products from European and American countries of origin to retailers in Chinese Mainland.

In the past decade, the market size of China's fashion industry has tripled. In 2012 alone, the Chinese luxury goods market grew by 6% - Chinese consumers have now become the world's largest luxury goods buyer, accounting for 25% of global total sales.
