德国尼克NICK蓄电池NCG150-12 节能型 12V150AH贮电系统

The specific gravity of the electrolyte in a battery is almost proportional to the amount of discharge. Therefore, the discharge capacity of the battery can be calculated based on the proportion when the battery is fully discharged and the proportion when it is discharged at 10%.

The best way to determine the discharge capacity is to determine the specific gravity of the electrolyte in lead-acid batteries. Therefore, regularly measure the specific gravity after use to avoid excessive discharge. While measuring the specific gravity, also measure the temperature of the electrolyte. The specific gravity calculated at 20 should not be reduced to below 80% of the discharge value.
