大使馆双认证：

贸促会盖章——外交部盖章——驻华使馆盖章

There are at least two kinds of chamber of commerce certification: the certification of the certificate of origin of the chamber of commerce. At this time, you can affix a chamber of commerce stamp in the fifth column of the certificate of origin. The certification of the document chamber of commerce is to form a commercial certificate. The meaning of embassy certification: In recent years, with the development of economic globalization, China 's export trade to the Middle East, Latin America, Africa and other countries and regions has benefited from the growth. In order to protect their domestic enterprises, these countries have formulated trade protection measures and product policies in order to protect the interests and markets of their domestic enterprises, and require that the relevant documents of China 's exported goods must be certified by their embassy in China -Manage customs clearance procedures for importing the country. Commonly found in Argentina and Egypt, the country clearly stipulates that all goods exported to the country must issue a general certificate of origin, and after being reviewed by its embassy in China, stamp the back of the certificate / book to verify / Book to confirm that the batch of goods can be successfully cleared. This practice of stamping and certifying the embassy in China on valid documents is called "embassy certification"!
