形式发票是在没有正式合同之前，经双方签字或盖章之后产生法律效力的充当合同的文件，它包括产品描述，单价，数量，总金额、付款方式、包装、交货期等。形式发票本来只是在客户确认了价格并下了定单之后卖方所做的使对方再次确认的发票，但在没有正式合同之前形式发票即是合同。“ Proforma ”是拉丁文，它的意思是“ 纯为形式的 ”。所以单从字面来理解，Proforma Invoice 是指纯为形式的, 无实际意义的发票。这种发票本来是卖方在推销货物时，为了供买方估计进口成本，假定交易已经成立所签发的一种发票。实际上，并没有发出货物的事实，正因为如此，这种发票也被称之为“ 试算发票 ”。

A proforma invoice is a document that acts as a contract and has legal effect after being signed or sealed by both parties before there is no formal contract. It includes product description, unit price, quantity, total amount, payment method, packaging, and delivery period. Formal invoices were originally only invoices made by the seller after the customer confirmed the price and placed an order to make the other party reconfirm. However, the formal invoice was the contract before there was no formal contract.

"Proforma" is Latin, it means "purely formal". So to understand it literally, Proforma Invoice refers to purely formal, meaningless invoices. This invoice was originally an invoice issued by the seller in order to allow the buyer to estimate the import cost when the seller was selling the goods. In fact, there is no fact that the goods are issued, and because of this, such invoices are also called "trial invoices."
