Due to the short practice time,the limited number of students involved,the docking practice base is not long,and few practice teams continue to work in a region or have an in-depth understanding of a project.

Because there is no in-depth and comprehensive research,the conversion rate of results is not high.Some colleges and universities often only pay attention to classroom teaching,do not deeply excavate and connect social practice bases,and the number of off campus practice bases is limited.

The cooperation between the school and some practice bases is not close enough to provide students with opportunities to participate in exercise.This has greatly reduced the quality of social practice in the countryside and turned it into a form.
